Legendary Layouts:

The Historic Golf Trail in the Pocono Mountains

Arnold Palmer and Jackie Gleason tee it up at Shawnee

Of the 35-plus golf courses in the Pocono Mountains, a select handful paved the way, using the unique mountain topography to create a historic trail of gems created by the world's masters.

One of them - Shawnee - turns 100 this year, giving us reason to celebrate these masterful creations that should be on your must-play list this year:

- Shawnee Inn and Golf Resort: Opened in 1911, this A.W. Tillinghast design was his first documented course in America. Site of the 1938 PGA Championship, most of the 27 holes lie on an island.
- The Inn at Pocono Manor: The original East Course was designed by Donald Ross and opened in 1912, and served as the site to LPGA and Senior Tour events in its storied past.
- Buck Hill Falls Country Club: Originally built as a nine-hole layout in 1907, Buck Hill was completely redesigned by Donald Ross in 1921-22. Today, 14 of the 18 Ross-designed holes remain untouched, with class Ross features.
- Glen Brook Golf Course and Skytop Lodge Golf Course - both designed by Scottish legend Robert White (in 1924 and 1927, respectively), these short layouts are long on fun.

See poconosgolf.com for more information, specials and events on all Pocono Mountains courses.
